Canadian society is rapidly changing. This concise, up-to-date volume masterfully captures this change. Edited by two of Canada’s leading demographers, Roderic Beaujot and Don Kerr, this book is an exciting entry in Canadian population studies, drawing from a variety of disciplines, including sociology, geography, economics, history, and epidemiology. _The Changing Face of Canada_ is an essential text for demography courses across the country.

Each reading has been meticulously edited and concisely ordered into five essential sections:
- fertility
- mortality
- international migration, domestic migration and population distribution
- population aging
- population composition

Vital issues include: the role of immigration in Canada’s future; the deteriorating economic welfare of immigrants; globalization, undocumented migration, and unwanted refugees; Aboriginal population change; implications of unprecedented low fertility; and the astonishing demographic transformation of Canadian cities.

Reviews
“This book is well organized and at exactly the right academic level for [undergraduate readers]. It provides a comprehensive look at Canadian demography and should fill a void in Canadian demography readings. The book is well balanced for demography courses in history, sociology, and geography.”
— David K. Foot, University of Toronto

“This set of readings situates demographic theories and concepts in an applied Canadian perspective. . . . I think the editors have given the selection of readings a great deal of thought.”
— Gustave Goldmann, Statistics Canada and Carleton University
